The Aurora Fossil Museum opens the door to the exciting world of earth science exploration through hands-on paleontology and rare exhibits on prehistoric life. A "Must See" prehistoric attraction in eastern North Carolina, the Museum provides fun and interesting opportunities to learn by doing. Visitors hunt for finders-keepers marine fossils in mounds of marl-like material brought from nearby Lee Creek Mine, world-famous for its rare fossil deposits. Inside the Museum, visitors enjoy perusing an impressive shark tooth collection, prehistoric whale exhibit, extensive collection of classic fossils from worldwide sources and North Carolina Native American artifacts.
